

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An orthotopic total artificial heart for replacing the human heart comprising a new design of two assembled blood chambers with an original layout between themselves and between their inlet and outlet ports. Such design enables a 5 significantly better space utilization inside the anterior mediastinum than the prior art; realizing the required anatomical fit.